TO HER OUR THANKS AND APPRECIATION FOR HER GENEROSITY HAS BROUGHT TO US.

The past year has seen the loss of three men who were dear and vital to the University—two well known and long established, the third cut short from a promising beginning. All were men of great understanding, ability, and sympathy, beloved by their colleagues, admired and respected by the students

THE WHITE HOUSE

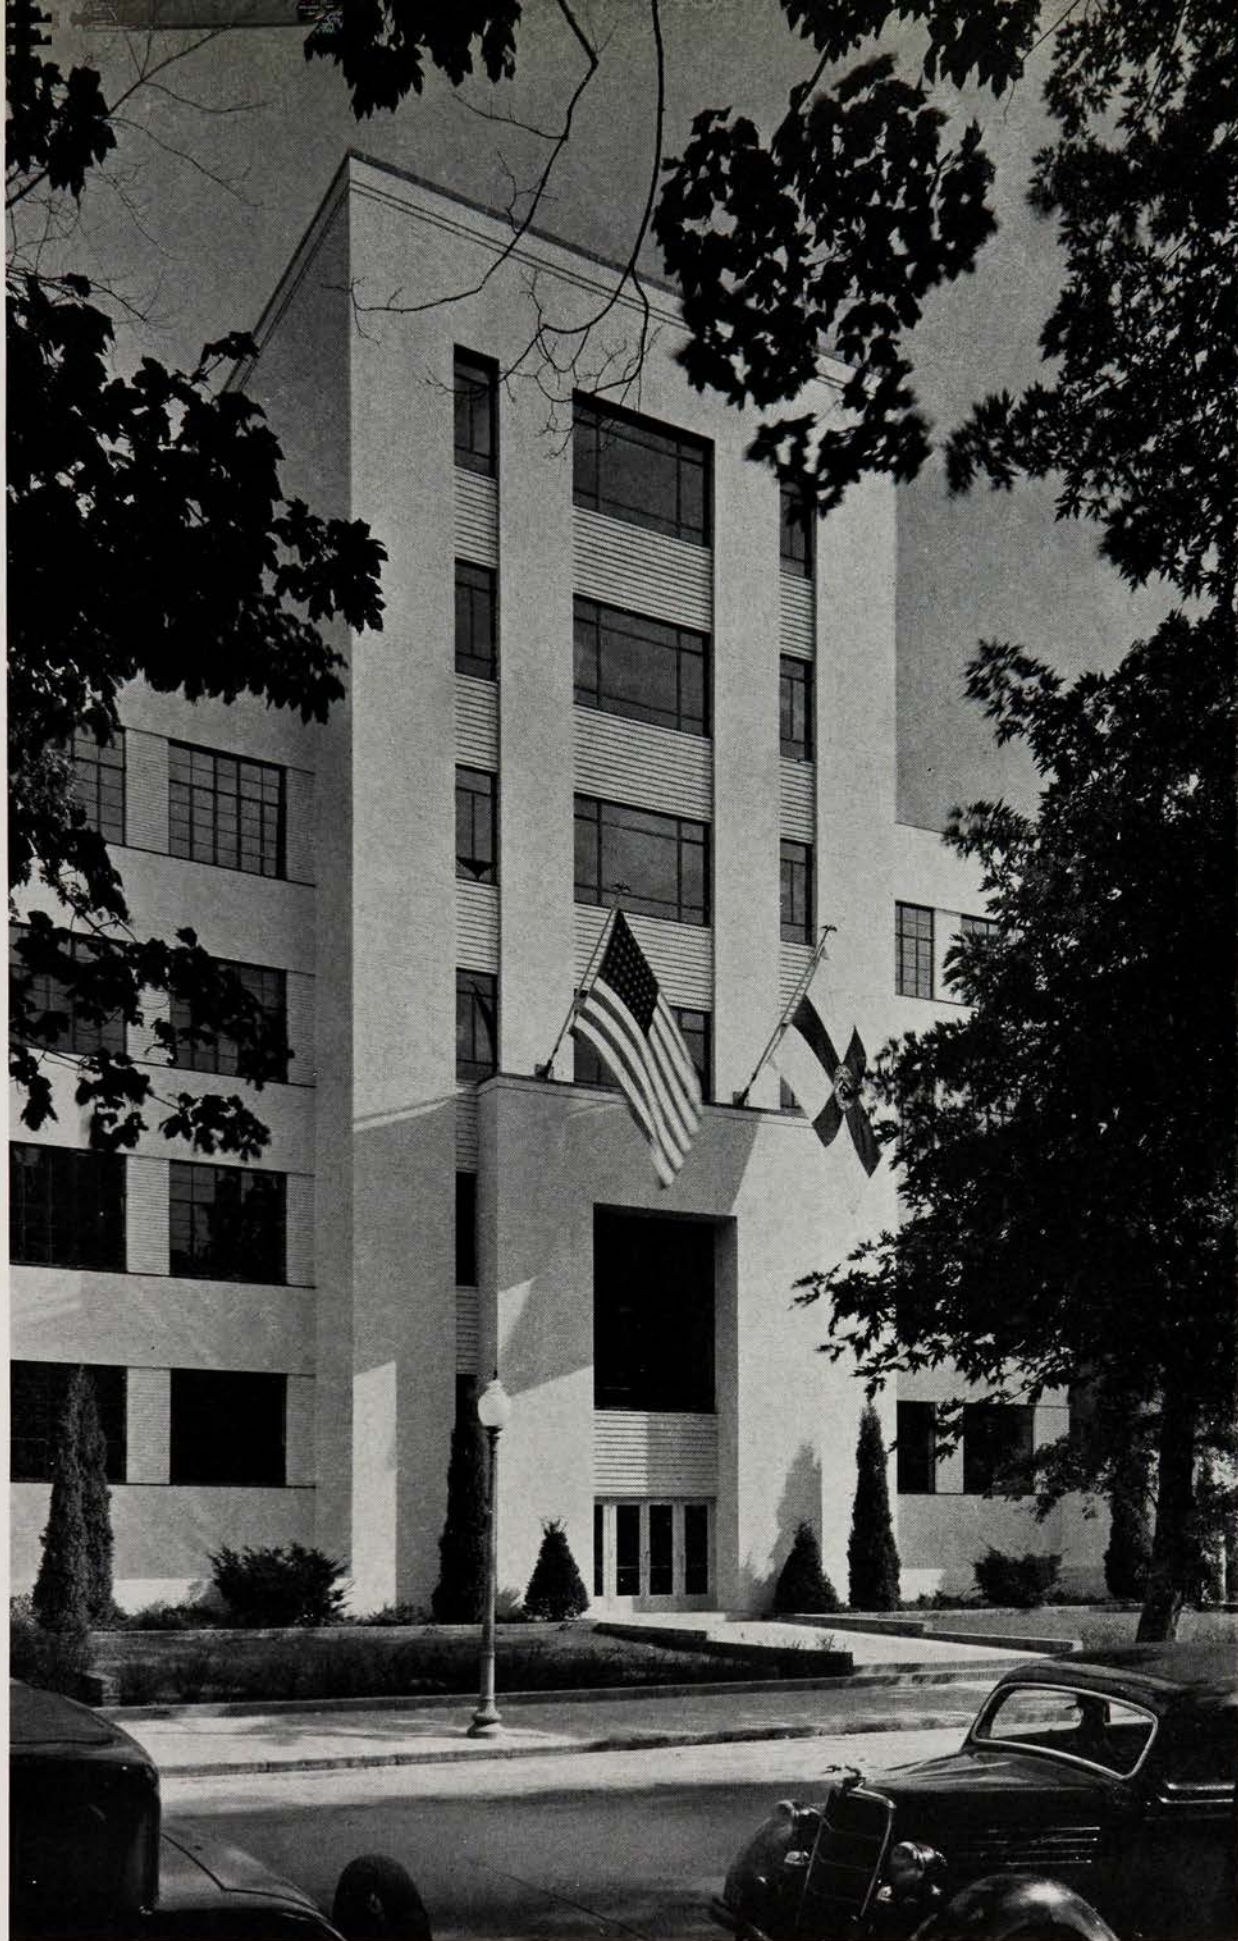

The home of the President is the oldest and most little changed public structure in the Federal City. It is lacking in the dramatic and in lavish display, but for its charm and dignity it is unsurpassed. The building is of grey sandstone brought from nearby Virginia and is made white only by the artist's brush. Quiet and stately it settles in the midst of spacious grounds on the site designated by L'Enfant. Its beauty lies in its tradition and simplicity.

In dedicating their yearbook members of the Class of 1940 fittingly recognize one who has made a great and enduring contribution to the development of our University.

Mrs. Strong's interest in education and in youth has been vital and creative, leaving its imprint not only here on the George Washington University campus, but upon the city of Washington and upon other communities in our own and other lands where she has initiated and fostered educational and philanthropic work.

May I repeat here in tribute to Mrs. Strong the citation with which three years ago the University conferred upon her the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws:

"World citizen in whom a variant life has served to discover rich appreciation, unfold fine enthusiasm, and ripen generous character; friend to youth through education and to the worthy in need through benefactions; by belief in the inmost, utmost things of faith and by earnest living, her life enriches human and personal values."

THE CAPITOL

The Capitol, meeting place of the National Government, dominates the entire city of Washington. It occupies the site chosen by Major L'Enfant on the crest of "Jenkins Hill," for, as the great architect said, the hill seemed "a pedestal waiting for a monument." The building with its huge central dome possesses dignity and majesty rather than beauty of detail. The cornerstone was laid as early as 1793, but not until 1836 was it made complete as it is today.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

With June is written the closing chapter in the college careers of the students of the class of 1940. We have been privileged to enjoy the experiences, rich scholarship, and social endowments which the University so willingly offered to us.

We arrived bewildered and childlike and emerge men, experienced and capable, ready and proud to take our places among the others in the world.

The class has seen much development of its alma mater. Scholastically a step was taken forward with the establishment of a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Physically it has grown by the erection of three large and stately buildings. Still greater development and progress are in sight.

Pen and paper are not sufficient to express the memories—vivid and dear—which shall remain with us of our University days. Each has his own memories which this shall serve only to recall.

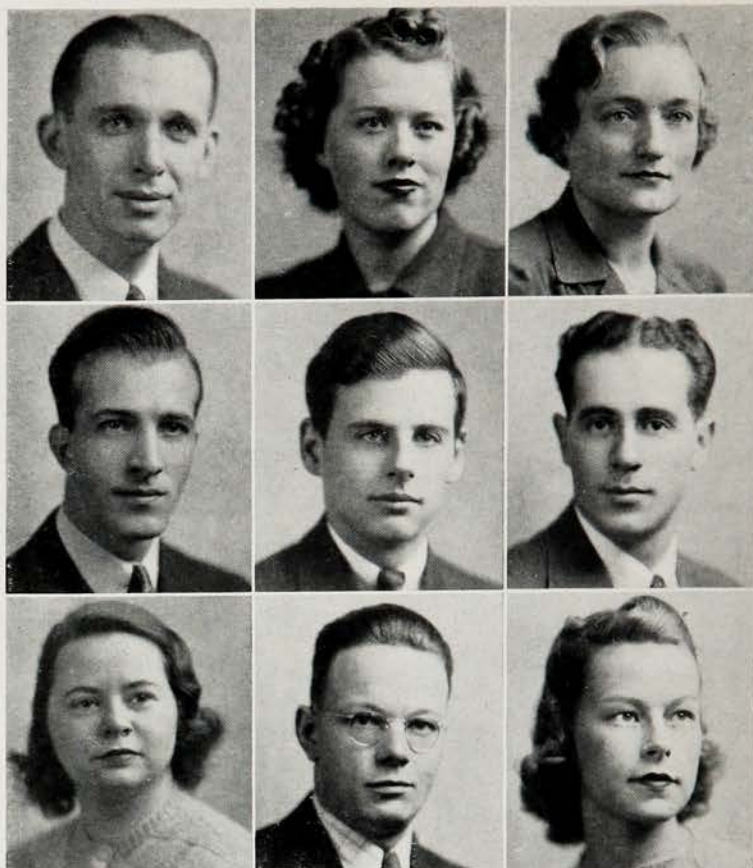

It is our hope and belief that leaders shall emerge from among our ranks, and that some day we shall all meet again upon the path of life.

THE LAW SCHOOL

The George Washington University Law School celebrates its seventy-fifth year in 1940. With its diamond anniversary the faculty, the alumni, the president, and its students can look back to a fine foundation for its ever growing standards and ideals. As the more facets a diamond has the more splendid it is, so the Law School, in its years of existence, has cut more facets in the diamond of its reputation and its goal.

This year a clear facet was cut. The S.J.D. degree was offered to graduate students in law for the first time. Now a student can obtain his Doctor's degree in Law at the George Washington University. Each year has seen new facets cut; the old ones polished a little more; and new ones carefully and meticulously blocked out—to be cut later with all the precision of the most skilled diamond cutters.

The Student Bar Association, a new facet last year, this year has functioned more bravely than ever. Through the Student Bar Association the students of the Law School are being more closely drawn together into an integral unit than ever before in the history of the Law School. Through it also the Law School has become more a part of the University as a whole and stands as an important factor in the University scheme of things. The tradition of the school from the years it has grown are reflected and polished by the new traditions being built up. New traditions begun this year are the Barrister's Ball; the Christmas Party; lectures by speakers representing every field of public law; student dinners; case clubs; and other well-laid plans to make the law student of the George Washington University a better lawyer, widely cultured in his special field and with a greater appreciation of the law as a science, an art and as a profession.

Through the thoughtful and inspired efforts of Dean Van Vleck and the able faculty he heads, the Law School has grown to be recognized as one of the finest in the United States today. Its alumni are scattered throughout the entire country and are proving through their rising careers that the background and training given to them in the George Washington Law School is one of the best obtainable.

To the law student today, besides his work, the exams, the classroom lectures and case discussions, there is something else. This other something is intangible, but vital—it is spirit. Like the diamond before it is cut and polished the Law School had to emerge from a shapeless mass by patient cutting, infinite labor, careful planning, wisdom, and skillful administration. As the diamond emerged, bit by bit, it took on more shine, and sparkle—today in the University setting it is a brilliant addition because its ideals, traditions, background, and spirit have made it so.

H I S T O R Y O F T H E

June, 1960.

Dr. Ellen Posjnak (voted the most beautiful girl over 5 feet 4 inches in the class) is about to publish her book on "Pediatrics Made Easy, or How to Beat Them Into Submission in Six Lessons." Genevieve McLaughlin and Elizabeth Kahler (tied for title of most beautiful girl under 5 feet 4 inches) are associated with Dr. Posjnak in the authorship of this snappy volume. Dr. McL. makes children submit to therapy by talking Brooklynese at them; while Dr. Kahler describes how to handshake the brats into obedience. . . . The famed Garfield Hospital group, headed by Drs. Maher and Latimer, have compiled an entirely new system of physical diagnosis. Ssh! It's whispered secretly that they had run fresh out of every other means of selling books. Latimer, you'll remember, got his start as president of the soph class (might one call him an ecto-or endoparasite?) Maher started from scratch. Who said he's still starting? These men are also infiltrating into the Social Uplift Club, a metastasis of the old Antisocial Down-Paper Society, whose other malignancies were Pete Kline, Joe Casella, John Rittenous, and Joe Chinn. You'll remember Kline as the fullback who went to Med School because the fellows on Cornell's football team called him a sissy when he grew a moustache. Chinn has clung to an agitated depression since his year as president of the senior class. Casella, you'll be reading soon, has become a frank megalomaniac—his role in the Medical Mikado was more than he could stand. . . . Flaherty, that Blunderbuss of Physical Diagnosis, and Ziman (sometimes called the Number One Menace to Public Health), have still not buried the hatchet. Inflamed relations between them are chronic. Tiny is most noted as the author and producer of the class play (after which Gilbert and Sullivan modeled their most famous operetta). The Hall-Bock-James Clinic is about to enlarge, Dr. Hall (better known to his colleagues as "Rest in Bed and Elevate the Part" Hall) informs us. A neuro-psychiatric section will be established, and those two eminent psychopathologists (who said psychopaths?), Leary and Lane, are being considered to head this service. Lane has had excellent results with the compulsion neuroses; he boasts the best one-case series in existence. Leary's researches have bogged a bit since he developed a full-blown neurosis of his own. He now believes he's a guy named Joe, an ambition he used to repeat so often that it's identified itself with him.

We walked along N Street, near 17th, last Saturday night. Folks in that neighborhood have been gossiping that one of the houses is haunted, practically every week-end. Most eerie screeches could be heard from the third tier of one of the old dwellings. Research disclosed the cause, to-wit: a few old docs re-living their boyhood days. Don Muir, Maine's "Malingering Mac" McFarland, and Vernon Stehman were making maw about an unsuccessfully as in the old times. The largest collection of medical photography known to science is in the possession of Drs. Futrovsky and Buckley. Buckley specializes in microscopic work, while Futrovsky is known far and wide for his ability to persuade recalcitrant patients to pose. Result—a wonderful collection. A thing we never knew till now is how you doctors make such spectacular diagnoses. The mystery was partially cleared for your observer when Dr. "Foggy Bottom" Weaver, of the Whitley-Storer-Weaver-Bailey Clinic, wove in to show his new ruler, with which he rules out every diagnosis save his! The clinic is prospering—Whitley specializes in keeping the patients happy with stories of his youth in the Ozarks (politicians say that's how he got to be president of the freshman class); Storer lends the polished touch; and Bailey supervises the book-keeping. Drs. E. Lorenzo Willard and G. Trice Mitchell are now jail physicians at Sing Sing. Among their most noted patients is the eminent Dr. Youndt, who dearly loves to talk back to traffic cops. Dr. Moody has just opened an office of his own. He has spent the last 20 years treating his family, and now has them in such good condition that he feels safe in starting on someone's else. Drs. Roy Hammond and Dick Murphy are to be his partners, silent by necessity. . . . Generals Block, Carbonell and Miller were seen conferring with Admiral Thiemeyer the other day in a history making session. The military think that their old classmate should be made Surgeon-General of the Navy, but he wants to be some sort of chief—from our listening-post (under the table) we heard him muttering about "Lord High Chief Pathologist."

Professors Saidman and Zukerman, of G. W. U., are holding their lectures these days in the Lucky Strike Bowling Emporium; getting results, too. Dr. Goldensohn, the medical sociologist whose diagnosis of the Russian problem has changed completely six times in the past five years, says in his latest book that his position on the fence is so comfortable he thinks he'll just stay there! Squire Burgess, prominent Connecticut country doc, has just published a tidy ten-volume work titled "Class Notes for Embattled Juniors and Seniors." Drs. Hayes, Heiges, and Cooper have taken temporary leave of their practices to help out Doc Burgess' publication. Heiges' sparkling personality has sold everything from bibles to silk stockings; and it's whispered that Cooper and Hayes plan to help the sale by recounting in True Confessions how previous editions of good old Doc Burgess' notes have pulled them through doldrums. Cooper plans to pose in a few fetching ads. Scoop! The new physician to the United States Senate is to be none other than the famous internist (and bucolic tale-teller), Dr. Derrig. He's still keeping his old side-kicks, Danish and Di Francesco, howling with his tall stories about Idaho and all points east. Derrig was elevated to this high post through his old contacts as Sergeant on the Hill, as well as by the influence of his old friend, Rep. (Doc) Larson, whose campaign platform, you'll remember, was that he gave away, not borrowed, cigarettes! The first problem Doc Larson tackled was the investigation of a Quaker group, said to be led by three docs—Winn, Engelskirger, and Snow. All previous efforts to get them to talk have failed completely. . . . And your historian? Ah, he's been President of the United States three times and is now running for King of the World—but he'll be all right as soon as he gets his malaria injections!

BOOK THREE FEATURES

THE FOLGER LIBRARY

The Folger Library, containing a collection of rare Elizabethan manuscripts and invaluable documents, departs in its structure from the classic and turns to the modern mood. The result is refreshing, harmonious, and dignified. The decorative metal work, sculptured panels, and fitting inscriptions greatly enhance its beauty. In its simplicity, artistry, and sense of scale lies its charm.

FROM A GROUP OF ELEVEN CON-TESTANTS, THE FOLLOWING WERE CHOSEN AS THE THREE MOST BEAU-TIFUL GIRLS AT GEORGE WASHING-
TON. THE SELECTION WAS MADE IN PERSON BY BENNY DAVIS, FAMED STAR-MAKER.

FRATERNITIES

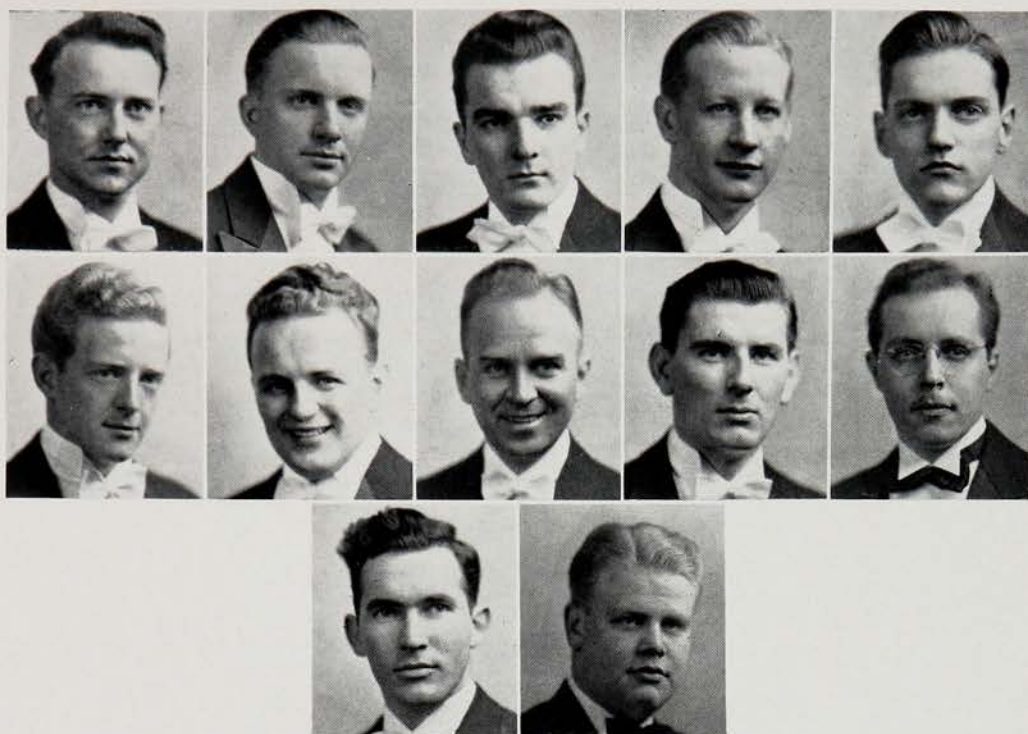

THE SUPREME COURT

In the classic grandeur, magnificence, and splendor of this imposing building is exemplified the power and strength of the Judiciary Branch of the Government. Its theme is one of authority. It was designed as a great marble temple with flanking wings and central portico. The whiteness of the marble, not only of the building but of the terrace surrounding it, is dazzling to the eye. Its beauty although cold and abstract is mighty and powerful. As an example of the classic on a large scale, it reaches the highest peak.

THE LINCOLN MEMORIAL

This temple-like monument to Abraham Lincoln is situated on a terraced plot at the end of the beautiful city mall, drives and parkways radiating from it in all directions. Its thirty-six fluted doric columns of white Colorado marble represent the states in the Union at the time of Lincoln's death. The names of the states are inscribed on the freize above. In place of a door a monumental opening has been formed by two columns placed "in antis," through which can be seen the huge life-like statue of Lincoln. The Memorial is stately, dignified, and beautiful.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CLASS OF 1940 FROM THE ALUMNI

Dear Alumnus:

The General Alumni Association extends greetings and a warm invitation to the Class of 1940 to join in the work of the Association for the welfare of the University and the strengthening of personal ties among its graduates and former students. A continuing interest in the University should be a part of the heritage of every graduate, and the alumni organizations are the channels which give direction and expression to this interest. They are a means through which alumni and former students may join in extending and increasing the investment which their years at the University have given them.

Personal ties among graduates of the University are strengthened and renewed by means of regular alumni meetings in Washington and in various cities throughout the country, and by means of the "Alumni Review."

Very sincerely yours,

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

The Columbian Women is the largest and most active women's organization in the George Washington University. It was founded in 1894 under the leadership of Miss Mary Charlotte Priest, A.B. 1893, A.M. 1901. The advancement of women in educational work has been for many years one of the principal objectives of the Columbian Women. A substantial scholarship fund has been built up from life membership dues and a large number of scholarships have been granted to women students in the University.

The organization has always maintained close contact with the University administration and gives its full support to the promotion of all interests of the University. This year, as last year, most of its efforts was directed toward the raising of funds for the Women's Activities Building.

The following are eligible for active membership in Columbian Women: Any woman who for one year has been a regularly registered student in the University, provided she shall have received credit for thirty semester hours of work; any woman member of the Faculties or Board of Trustees; any woman on the Administrative Staff; the wife or recognized head of the household of any member of the Faculties, Board of Trustees, or the Administrative Staff; and any woman recipient of an honorary degree from the University. Graduate women students and wives of graduate men students are eligible for associate membership, having all privileges of membership except those of voting and holding office.

The Newman Club is an organization for Catholic students attending the University and is affiliated with the Newman Club Federation of College Catholic Clubs. The purpose and object of the club is religious, educational, and social. The active membership of the club is more than 125 students, 65 of whom were initiated last December.

The George Washington Chapter was host to the Federation at the Middle Atlantic Province Convention held here in April. Convention headquarters were at Hotel, 2400 Sixteenth Street.

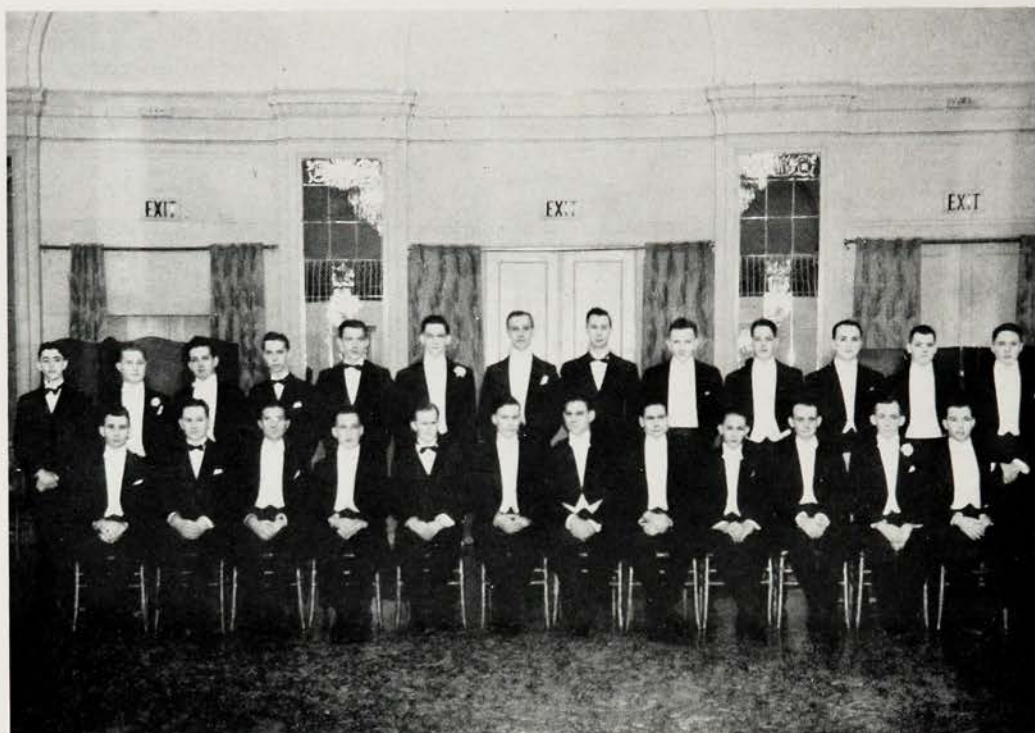

Honor keys for outstanding service to Newmanism were presented to Thomas F. McCarthy and John Hiegel, past officers, at the Corporate Communion Breakfast at the Lee House on Sunday, January 8.

This Catholic organization meets twice a month, on the first and third Thursdays, at eight o'clock in the evening. Many guest speakers, both priests and men in public life, addressed the club on some features of Catholicism. Retreats for men and women are conducted every year at Manrasa. Two Corporate Communion Breakfasts are held each year, as well as three formal dances and many informal social parties, as skating and bowling parties.

Each month the Riding Club held a business meeting and each month a lecture on riding techniques was given by some prominent horseman. The club has been very active with its early morning cross-country rides, moonlight rides, and instruction rides. A paper appropriately called the "Stirrup" was published by club members. High points were reached in the Fall and Spring Horse Shows and the team which appeared in the Fort Myer show. The club is for both novice and expert.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding."—Proverbs, 4:7.

The Christian Science Organization at the George Washington University was founded in 1931. It is composed of students and faculty members interested in Christian Science and is one of seventy such organizations in universities and colleges throughout the world.

The organization, through the study of the Bible and the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, is enabling students to carry out more successfully the purpose of education—training for citizenship, impartation of culture, and development of character.

Meetings of the organization are held in Columbian House at 8:10 P. M. on the first and third Thursdays of each month during the school year. A reception was held on October 22, 1939, for students and faculty members interested in Christian Science, at which Mr. Arthur L. Hitchcock, C. S. B., a teacher of Christian Science in Washington, D. C., spoke. Each year a lecture is given by a member of the Board of Lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Mr. Thomas Hurley of Louisville, Kentucky, was the lecturer this year, addressing an appreciative audience on December 8, 1939.

Authorized books and periodicals on Christian Science, including the international daily newspaper, the "Christian Science Monitor," are available in the University Library.

MEN'S DEBATE

Again under the direction of Professor Roberts, the varsity team had a most successful season. Out of the eight debates participated in by the team, the most important was the debate held with Oxford University on the subject, "Shall America Act as Mediator in European Affairs." The University was represented by Calvin Cory and Charles Corker.

A series of debates all dealing with the subject "American Withdrawal From the Orient" then followed. A squad composed of Mike McKool, Christian Bromberg, George Pope, Alton Hemba, and Frank Curley debated this subject against the teams of the University of North Carolina, University of Pennsylvania, and Princeton University.

Debates with the University of Missouri held at Columbia, Missouri, and with Washington University held at St. Louis, Missouri, concluded the season. In both of the debates George Washington was represented by Cole Reasin and Calvin Cory.

WOMEN'S DEBATE

The season of the women's varsity debate team was opened with a debate against the University of Wesleyan on the subject, "Resolved that the German-American Bund Should be Suppressed." George Washington, represented by Anne Dienstal and Evelyn Morris, upheld the negative.

A second team consisting of Elsie Carper and Lucy Majure traveled by plane to Pittsburgh to debate the University of Pittsburgh on the subject, "Resolved that the Basis Blame for the Present European War Rests upon France and Great Britain."

Additional debates were held against the men's team of Beloit College. In addition Miss Betty Green, past president of the Model Senate, traveled to New York to represent the University at the Model Senate meeting at Fordham University.

The members of the varsity team were Elsie Carper, Evelyn Morris, Betty Green, Lucy Majure, Anne Dienstal.

THE CHERRY BLOSSOM DRIVE

In cooperation with Masonic Clubs throughout the country, the Masonic Club at George Washington University conducted its annual Cherry Blossom drive. The drive which is participated in by all campus organizations consists of the sale of paper blossoms made by the war veterans. The proceeds of the campaign are turned over to a fund which pays for twelve scholarships in the School of Government. This year the co-directors of the drive were Nancy Early and Katherine Bowen. The winner was awarded a handsome silver loving cup.

ATHLETICS

A R C H I V E S

The function of this building, a repository for valuable state documents, suits its architecture, for the style is such that it creates an effect of enduring purpose. The structure is an example of pure classic architecture and with its huge corinthian columns and portico is one of the most imposing and impressive buildings in the city. Not until the year 1935 was it officially opened. For impressiveness and strength, it is second only to the Supreme Court building.

Director of Athletics of George Washington University is Mr. Max Farrington. A former star in football and baseball at Westminster College and still one of the outstanding badminton players of the District, Farrington arranges the schedules for the varsity and freshman teams in cooperation with the coaches and represents the University in all matters of policy. His outstanding work during his short tenure of office has been the renewal of athletic relations with Georgetown University and Maryland University. He has favored closer association with the Southern Conference with perhaps the aim of membership in that body in the near future.

THE MANAGERIAL SYSTEM

The University athletic managerial system this year consisted of a Senior Manager of Basketball who was serving his third year on the managerial staff, and three football managers, all boys who were serving their first year in this capacity, so none of them could be called Senior Managers. The manager of baseball has not yet been selected, but he will act in charge of that sport under the direction of Trainer George Lentz.

Frank Mann, after serving previously as Freshman and Assistant Manager of Basketball, this year became the full fledged manager, making all the trips along with the squad and will be awarded a Varsity sweater at the end of the season. In the football department Iverson Hutton, Ben Hamilton, and Tom LaPia served for the first time under Doc Lentz in the difficult job of caring for the equipment of the football team, a task which kept the trio busy during both the regular season and spring practice.

The manager of baseball, like those of football, cares for the team equipment, helps out in practice, and acts as scorekeeper at the games.

Many of the duties of the managers are menial and definitely unsensational, but all necessary. The managers are all boys whose services are indispensable to a good team.

RESUME OF

Despite the fact that the Colonials opened the '39 season with a line manned largely by sophomores, a back-field lacking a consistent ground gainer, and a schedule that included the Cotton Bowl champion and a team that went undefeated, the football season was one of the most successful of the past several years as the final record showed five wins and three losses, all of the latter by a one touchdown margin. Although only three experienced men returned from last year, Botchy Koch produced a very fine line, and it is a tribute to his ability that Monchlovich at center, Ziobro and Kokosi at guards, and Frank August at end turned out to be almost stars in their first year as regulars. Bob Nowaskey at end played All-American ball in every game and appeared as one of those selected by the opposition for the All-Opponent teams, while Daddy Jones and Duce Keahey had great seasons as tackles. Billy Richardson and Ed Wilomowski led the offense during the early part of the season while Tom Grady and Walt Fedora found themselves in the last four games. Against Kansas, Bucknell, and West Virginia they played brilliant ball.

Opening at Griffith Stadium, the Colonials ran over a stubborn Davis-Elkins eleven easily, 19-0, but showed that there were many rough spots in the team to be ironed out. The lack of a sustained offense was evident in the opener and even more so in the second game when they faced Butler University in Indianapolis and dropped a 13-6 decision as a big Negro boy named Tom Harding turned All-American for that afternoon and scored all 13 points for Butler. Booth scored the lone Colonial tally after the team had cashed in on one of its many scoring opportunities from drives down the field which generally fell short of their mark.

The next game against the Citadel was the low water mark of the season for the Colonials, for even though they won, they looked bad and even pitiful against a very weak and light South Carolina team. Thinking too much of the coming game the following week with Georgetown, the boys had no offense and were almost as bad on the defense so that the half found them trailing 0-6 as the Citadel scored on a pass. A few pungent remarks by Mr. Reinhart during the half stirred up enough fight to let Ken Batson slip through a big hole on a cut-back and scamper sixty yards to tie the score on the first play of the second half but after that the play again lacked a consistent drive. It was a break that allowed them to score the winning points as Center Mike Monchlovich grabbed a fumble in mid-air and charged like a mad bull 42 yards for a touchdown and the margin of victory.

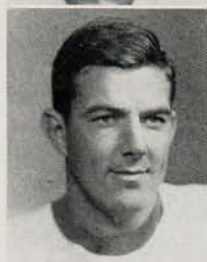

The following week in the big game of the season there was a complete reversal of form as the Colonials held the highly favored Hoyas of Georgetown completely in check except for one play near the end of the first half. The Hoyas had not lost a game the previous year and went through this season with only a tie against their record. Against G. W., however, they gained only 67 yards from scrimmage and completed only one of eight passes as Koshlop was time after time tackled before he could pass the ball. Georgetown got its touchdown when Center Al Matuza broke through to block a punt which End Mike Kopcik picked up and ran 25 yards to the goal line. This play occasioned much argument as many thought Matuza was offsides when he blocked the punt. It was in this game that Billy Richardson played his best with his brilliant passing and his 35-yard jaunt around end in the third period. Bob Nowaskey and the whole line played splendid defensive ball.

Against the powerful Clemson team which had beaten Navy the previous week the Colonials played their best game of the year even though they lost, 13-8. Featuring Banks McFadden's great kicking and Shad Bryant's flying feet on deep reverses, the Tigers finally scored, less than a minute before the half ended when McFadden threw a beautiful pass across the goal line for their first score. Then with the score against them 7-0, the Colonials pulled a beautiful pass play from their own 33 as Richardson shot a short pass to Bob Nowaskey who outran everyone else to score but then failed to convert. The Tigers quickly came back and scored to a 75-yard march to clinch the game but were never safe from the threat of a Colonial score as the two teams fought on even terms.

Out West in Kansas, the Colonials whipped K. U. 14-7 as Tom Grady, a hitherto unnoted sub, sparked a 90-yard drive in the third period to score after Bob Nowaskey had scored on a lateral from Sam Babich in the first quarter. Nowaskey also kicked the two points after touchdown and played a fine game as did Sam Babich and the whole line. Kansas scored late on a flurry of passes.

Back home for their next game, the Colonials nosed out Bucknell 7-6 in a game which was G. W. all the way. Playing in the bitter cold, both teams fumbled frequently on the soggy field but it was the Buff that was ever threatening to score. They scored only once when Lud Urick plunged over from the one-yard line late in the first quarter after a dazzling bit of running and razzle dazzle by Wilomowski and Nowaskey, the latter taking a lateral and running 60 yards to the Bucknell four, after Wilomowski had darted through tackle for 20 before tossing to Nowaskey. Welc's point after touchdown was the margin of victory.

The final game of the season found the Colonials in Morgantown playing the West Virginia Mountaineers and winning 13-0 with Grady and Fedora scoring and generally leading the offense. Grady started an early drive with his passing and running, going over finally from the sixth with Nowaskey converting. Walt Fedora broke loose later on in the game and galloped 48 yards on a beautiful run.

This game marked the end of the season and the close of the college careers of Bob and Art Nowaskey, Duce Keahy, Sunny Jones, Billy Richardson, and Ralph Zelaska, who have served three years faithfully and valuably for the Colonials.

When Bob Faris, Sid Silkowitz, and Jack Butterworth finished their collegiate basketball careers last March, the prospects for the next year's varsity seemed doubtful to the most intelligent observers, as only two regulars, George Garber and Reds Auerbach, and a third string center, Joe Comer, were returning to school, while the freshmen had compiled one of the worst records of any Colonial Frosh team in recent years. However, under the patient hand of Coach Bill Reinhart, the 1939-40 Colonial five attained the best record since 1935 when only three games were lost, by winning 13 this year and dropping only five.

George Garber turned in the outstanding bit of basketball in the District this year as time after time he distinguished himself as a team player, setting up scoring plays for Bobby Gilham and Reds Auerbach and driving the team when it threatened to stall. Strangely enough it was from the rather poor freshman team that two of the outstanding regulars of this past season emerged, Matt Zunic and Bobby Gilham, both of whom scored well. Zunic proved himself an exceptional ball-hawk.

Center Joe Comer played outstanding ball in nearly every game, both defensively and offensively and was selected for the All-District team along with Garber. Reds Auerbach, a senior, won several games for the Colonials with his pot shots and played an all-around good game. Charley Jones, a husky center, was the surprise of the year and along with Amendola, Veltri, and Urick, was a capable sub.

Outstanding in the season was a pair of victories over Toledo and Western Reserve on the losers' home court, the two games, one a victory and one a loss, with Georgetown, and a win over Maryland in the intercity competition. Bradley Tech and Wayne, both strong Midwestern teams, were beaten here while St. Johns of Brooklyn, one of the strongest teams in New York City, beat the Colonials 47-40 after the most exciting and best played game of the season. Losses to a veteran Culver Stockton team in the opener and to a strong Oklahoma A. and W. team after even battles were to be expected, but losses to Army and West Virginia were surprises.

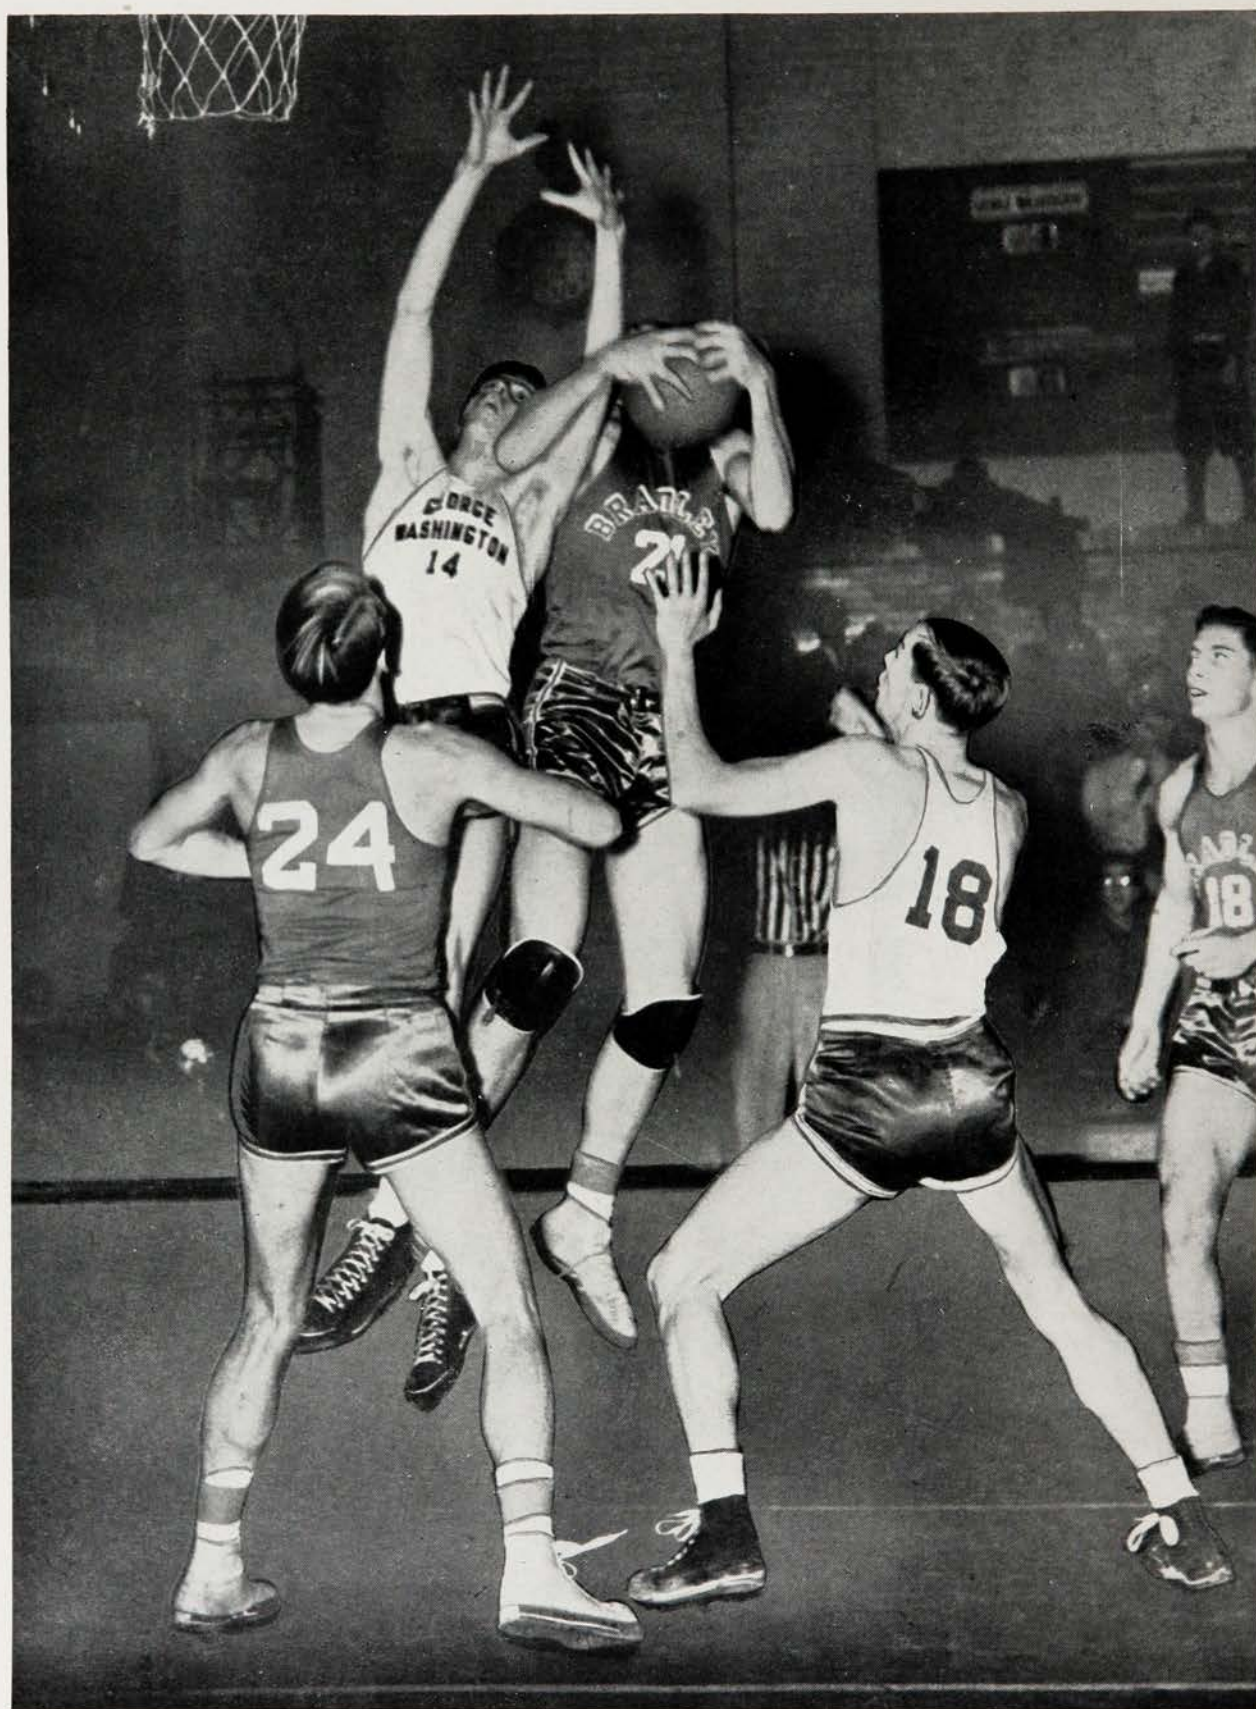

Next year's prospects are very good as only Garber and Auerbach will graduate while the freshman team which lost only one of its games, offers much fine material.

Displaying improvement in every match, the 1940 Rifle Team came up with a record rivaling that of the 1938 Intercollegiate Champions. With all but two of their matches completed when this goes to press, the Colonials have suffered only a three-point defeat by Army in their opening match while holding wins over Navy, the '39 Intercollegiate Champions, and a strong Maryland University team, in addition to a pair of wins over Georgetown. Great credit must be given to Coach Frank Parsons for his development of such a team.

The team was led by high scoring Bob Randall, while Hy Benerson, Al Seidler, Jack McMillan, Chris Cagle, and Bernard Chew offered him a steady supporting cast. Their high game of 1400 against Maryland demonstrated the potential power of the squad.

The Colonials enter the N. R. A. Intercollegiate Championships with an excellent chance of winning over the nation's top college rifle teams.

THE VARSITY

Engaging in baseball as a major sport for the first time, G. W. faces a tough fifteen game schedule which includes, in Maryland, Georgetown, Richmond, and Navy, some of the outstanding collegiate nines in the East and which will offer stiff competition for the young Colonial team. The starting lineup will be composed mainly of boys up from last year's freshman squad, all of whom are very promising but lacking in experience. This lack of experience will be especially noticeable on the mound, for in Redinger, Bright, and McGinnis, the Colonials have a trio of hurlers who, although they are fine prospects, need a great deal more seasoning before they can be called good. Wes Taylor up from the Frosh and Joe Durda, a smooth-looking newcomer, will battle for the backstopping post while the other positions are fairly well sewed up by sophs. Roy McNeil at first, Bobby Gilham and Tommy Simpson at short and second, and Lee Lusby at third will comprise the infield, with George Oertel and Harry Gray in the outfield, the third position there being open to some newcomer who will probably come from the football squad. Mr. E. K. Morris will again coach the team in what he expects will be a season of few wins and much learning.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL

The Freshman Baseball team, composed mainly of boys who played frosh football, did not get under way until the middle of April when football was over. Under the coaching of Bert Webb, a former Colonial baseball star, the freshmen will face all the local high schools and several of the strong amateur teams around Washington. Several of the boys appear to be real prospects for the varsity. Slick Gudmundson and Len Sokol in the outfield, Bob Hcod and Ray Fenlon in the infield, and Bill Wetmore on the mound appear to be outstanding at the present.

BALL

Enjoying their most successful season since 1936 the Colonial yearlings turned in three wins and one loss. Coach Ray Hanken, ex New York Giant end, in his first coaching job came up with a neat job of forming a team in which several exceptional prospects for the future varsities were in evidence.

The Frosh won easily over their first three opponents and bowed only to the strong undefeated Georgetown Freshman team. In every case, the offensive was led by the passing attack of Don Pinnow and Slick Gudmundson with Harry Sortel and Helio Lefkovitz on the receiving end. Every point after touchdown was converted by Dan Snyder, a tackle and a great place-kicker. Pinnow, the outstanding man on the team, has been rated as the most promising player to come to G. W. since Tuffy Leemans. Strong, fast, and shifty, Pinnow was probably the best passer, varsity or freshman, in local collegiate circles last fall.

It is very difficult to determine a player's ability in the short schedule that is given the freshmen and often boys who were unimpressive as freshmen earn starting positions as sophomores while freshman stars sometimes are never heard of again. Nevertheless some idea can be obtained.

In the backfield, Pinnow, Gudmundson, Wright, and Kaiserowitz were most noticeable, and are the outstanding prospects. Big John Koniszewski, a 205-pound fullback, will be tried at center next year so that his defensive ability can be utilized. Krauch at center may prove to be of value in the next three years, as he has the build for a first rate pivot man, while Lefkovitz will be tried out as a tackle when he goes up to the varsity.

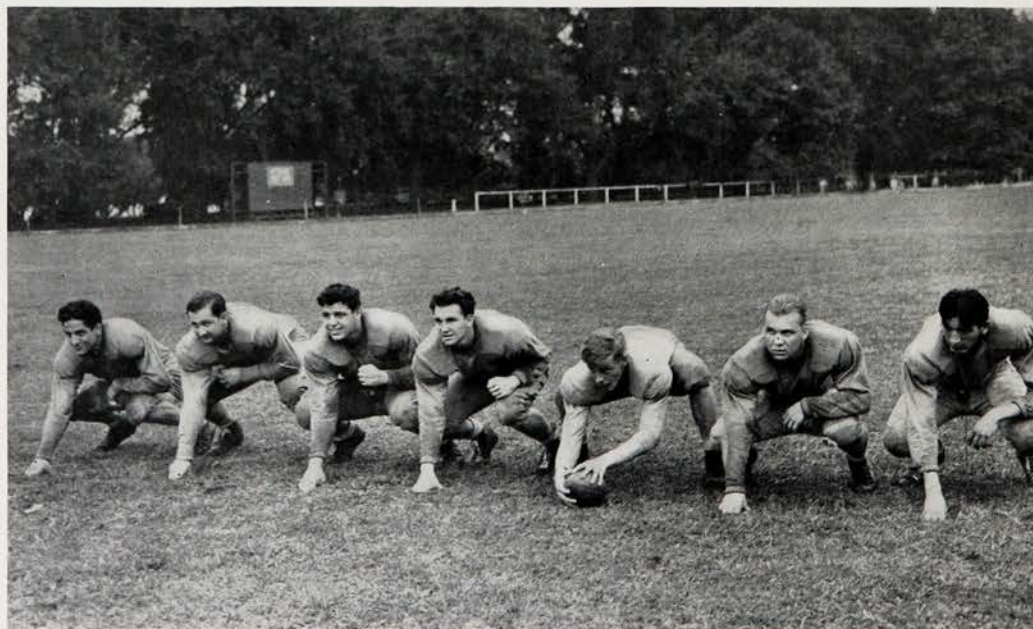

In all positions there was an abundance of reserves and perhaps from these the regulars of the next few years will come.

This year the Colonial Frosh came within one point of an unbeaten season, winning 17 games in a row before bowing to the Georgetown Frosh, 45-44 in their final game. Made up of boys from all over the country as well as the district, the team held victories over the Navy Plebes, Maryland Frosh, Georgetown Frosh, F. B. I. and all the local high school quints.

Led by Joe Gallagher, a local boy from St. Johns, and Red Rein from New York City, the Frosh won easily against every team it played with the exception of Navy which was beaten in the closing seconds, and the freshman team from Georgetown to whom it bowed by a lone point in their second encounter. Having been rather easily beaten in their first meeting with the Colonials, the Georgetown boys ran up a 14-point lead midway in the second half and led 39-24 before Joe Gallagher, Groetzinger and Rein led a furious rally that fell short by one point.

The outstanding product of this team will undoubtedly be Joe Gallagher who always acted as field general and generally led the offense. A smooth ball handler as well, this black-haired Irishman should easily step into a starting position next year with the Varsity. In Red Rein, Coach Otto Zahn had a great long shot artist, who often sunk shots while shooting from near the center line. Bob Groetzinger, John Koniszewski, John Fitzgerald, and Ralph Matera were the other players usually in the starting lineup.

STRAIGHT SHOOTING—Rifle.

This year Mable Vierling, manager, and Helen Hanford, coach, led the activities of the rifle team that fired its way to third place in the national championships last season, and boasted as a team member, Washington's first inter-collegiate champion — Jean Yocum. The outstanding matches of the year were the shoulder to shoulder matches with Drexel Institute and Maryland, fired on our range.

POETRY IN MOTION—Orchesis.

Five public performances of modern dance were given by Orchesis, the departmental dance group, during the year; the annual Student Recital, in March; all Student Dance Recital in April; Annual Symposium when G. W. is hostess to eight other colleges, in April; May Day; and the annual luncheon in June.

BOWSTRINGS—Archery.

A bullseye view of Archery this year shows better equipment, more arrows flying, and higher scores than ever before. Although Hood College came out winner in the matches in the fall tournament, highest scores in the match—434—was made by G. W.'s manager, Clare Singer.

SKILLFUL TOSSING—Basketball.

Weekly inter-class games, in which the freshmen were outstanding, and the traditional bouts with Goucher and Hood as well as three new games with Maryland University, American University, and Wilson Teachers College, gave basketball an active season. Ruth Brunner, general manager of this popular sport, was assisted by Mary Arnald, senior; Kay Bowen, junior; Peggy Kinsman, sophomore; and Rosalyn Pope, freshman class manager.

KICKING—Soccer.

Ethel Hoffman was elected next season's manager for G. W. soccer, the sport for all who love to kick a ball around the ellipse in rain or shine, mud or sleet. Three victories at the annual Sport Day at Hood College, and a soccer tea, given by the managers, concluded a successful season for this popular sport.

DRIBBLING—Hockey.

Inter-class competition in hockey was dribbled to a close in an exciting game, played on a slippery field in November. Among the varsity players whose swift teamwork helped defeat Maryland University and Wilson Teachers were Marion Pauls, Rosamund Griggs, Mary Quayle, Shirley Karns, and Jeanne Spaulding, manager.

HIPS HIPS AWAY—Workshop.

"Before and After" movies of girl students show what faithful devotion to workshop routine can do toward correction of figure defects. Seventy-two girls took regular workshop classes under the direction of Miss Helen B. Lawrence.

BREAKING THE ICE—Ice Skating.

Making their first thrilling scratch on the riverside arena last December, about fifty girls hailed ice skating as one of the most popular winter sports. While beginners were getting their balance, the advance group cut eights and three under the professional direction of Robin Scott, former National Novice champion.

MATCH POINT—Tennis.

Winner of the women's singles tennis tournament this year was Mary Ida "Lefty" LeBrou, who defeated runner-up Shirley Karns, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2. This and the doubles tournament played in late spring were managed by Virginia Stephens.

SITTING PRETTY—Riding.

Many feminine entrants in the University Horse Show learned their ribbon-winning technique in weekly classes at Rock Creek Riding School. Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burtner, a class show is held in the spring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Stolen from the Cherry Tree)

Dear Ed.:

I think this year's Cherry Tree is simply too divine for words or anything else, for that matter. I think it's wonderful. I think it's real dear. I like it very much. I think it's pretty. I think it's the most wonderful Cherry Tree that was ever grown—uh—published. Really, I think it's too magnificently splendid for—well, for anything.

And I'm not the teeniest little bit prejudiced either.

Sincerely,
HELEN McNEIL, Editor
The Cherry Tree

Dear Sir:

Unless we receive payment for your suit which you purchased here in June, 1935, we will be forced to attach the other pair of pants.

Yours overduly,
GROSNERS OF F. ST.

Editor, The Cherry Tree:

You can't blackmail me. No! I will not put $2000 in a shoe box under the table at Quigley's. Go ahead and put my picture in the Cherry Tree. There's always the Foreign Legion.

Dear Ed.:

I. Name the four most famous figures in history:

Answer: Cleopatra, Venus de Milo, Helen of Troy, Gipsy Rose Lee.

II. With what do you associate the following events:

Gold Rush . . . Homecoming Sweetheart Election

Boston Tea Party Rush Week

XYZ Affair Final Exams

Tweed Ring Interfraternity Council

Charge of the Light Brigade

. Student Club at 5 P. M.

Black Hole of Calcutta . . . Quigley's at Noon

Dark Ages May 29—June 8

Big Stick Policy Hell Week

Repeal of the 18th Amendment . . . Jungle Ball

III. Describe Panhellenic Greek Culture:

Answer: (by a K. A.)—In 1940 they reached dazzling heights in pulchritude.

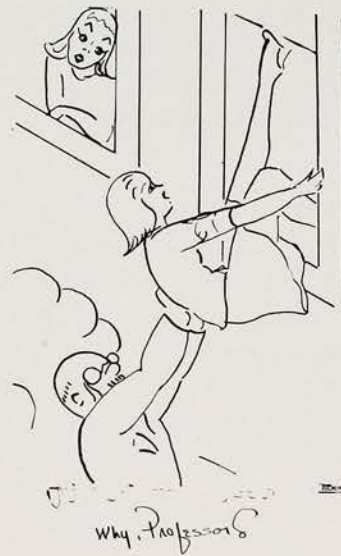

Answer: (by a Theta Delt)—They were rotten bridge players.

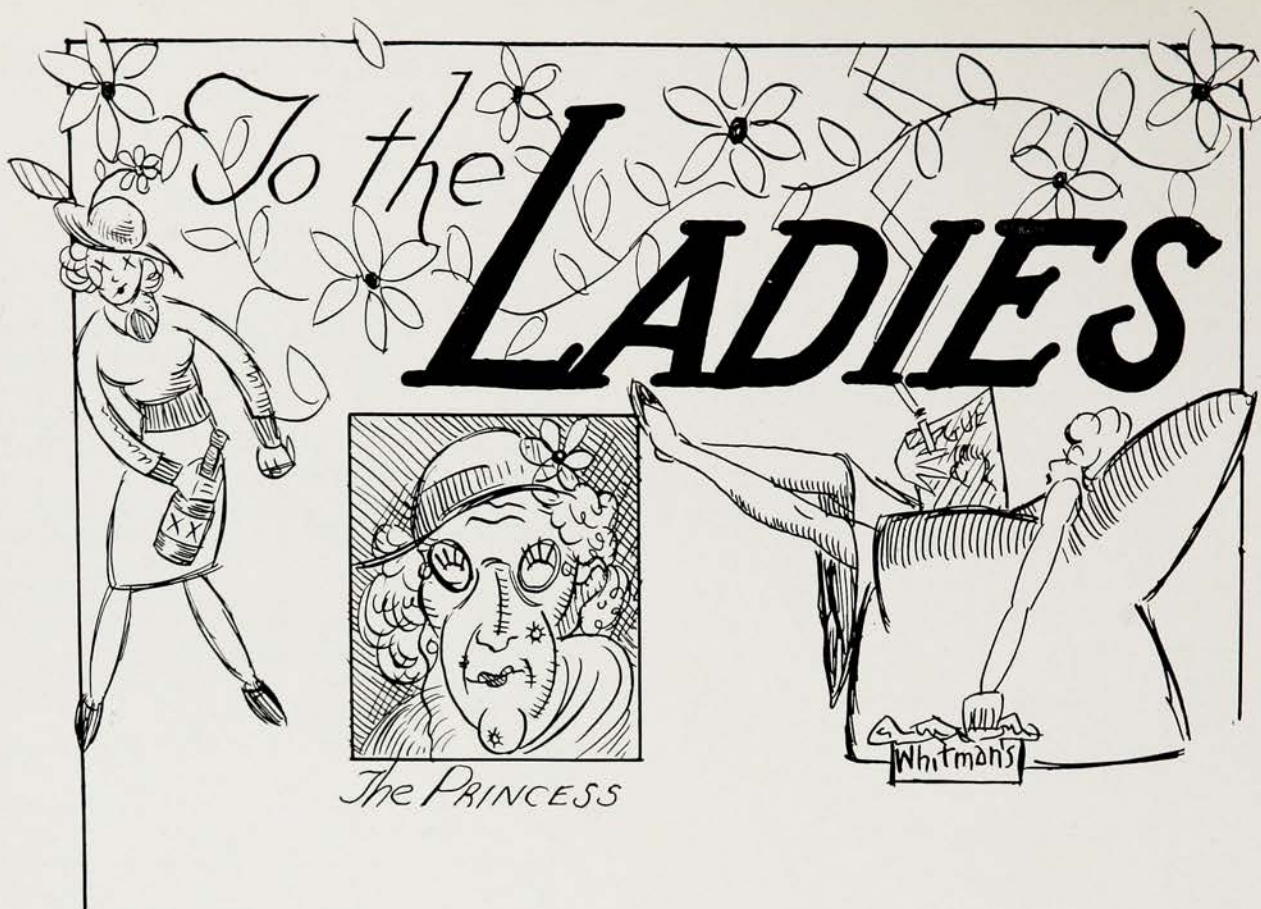

Answer: (by a Sigma Chi)—1940 was the Golden Age of Greek Culture. In the dramatic field playwrights showed remarkable imitative powers in their "Goat Shows," the characteristic form of Greek tragedy. These semi-annual productions were enacted semi-annually (by an odd coincidence) before great crowds of enthusiastic onlookers. One sorority (female sewing circle) was the outstanding leader in this period (I say this with pardonable pride). The rest were (a) drips, (b) goons, (c) drips, (d) what have you?

Answer: (by a Sigma Chi)—What they needed principally was a minimum of one good cook per lodge to prepare exchange dinners. It's hell having to pay fraternity house rates for exchange dinners whether you eat at the house or the sorority rooms.

IV. What did you like best about this course?:

Answer: Spring Holidays.

Hasn't it been hell getting ready for Spring, my dears? Your little reporter has been as busy as Jay Samuel on election day these past few days. Well, we're off again. We often get that way about this time of year. Uncle Ivanovich has already said, "To hell with it" and taken a room at St. Elizabeth's for the silly season.

Have you noticed the new curtains and rugs on the floor at Bassin's this week? Neither have I, but it's a helluva good idea. "Bassin Street Blues" is popular as ever, we hear from its publisher, the Arrow Brewing Company.

We've an unusual offer for you this week. The Crook of the Month Club is offering absolutely free a copy of Mary Ida LeBrou's "Six Simple Methods of Winning at Bridge—No Holds Barred." Simply tear the covers off 5000 Cherry Trees and mail them with $50.00 in fives and tens to cover cost of mailing, to the editor of Readers Digress. On second thought, don't bother to send the Cherry Tree covers. Just make the postage money an even $66.82.

Fashion note: Girls, saddle shoes are definitely worn this season. Jean Duke's are about the wornest I've run across, though M. Van Hemert's would run them a close second if the sissy didn't use white polish on them.

Angora sweaters are OUT, girls. Thirteen fraternity pins have been returned to donors during the past semester due to the circumstantial evidence angora creates.

CURRENT HISTORY

(Stolen from Current History)

It looked like a tough year for the male Greeks when rush season opened with a bang for nobody but the active chapters. However, in spite of an apparent lack of interested material, everybody muddled through and a surprising number of active fraternity men have sprung forth fully armed into the devious ways and by-ways of campus activities and Greek social doings from the ranks of the neophytes.

The Independents suffered inroads when Theta Delt sniped off a few of the more prominent individualists with a load of pledge pin and powder, but at this writing the stalwarts of honest individualism, Kniffin, McCabe, Skaggs, Bromberg, etc., ad infinitum, remain true to the red, white and blue and their principles.

The Greek sistren succeeded in having a good year insofar as goat herding goes, though each seemed to fear before pledging that the siren call of opposition lodges would lure many of their best prospects from the realization of their manifest destiny.

Politics—remained politics, as expected. Temperature about the same. Little change for better or worse. Symptoms change somewhat, but fundamental ills remain so.

Publications made the news headlines through the reorganization of the Hatchet, wholesale resignation (etc.) of the old guard, threats of the new guard to follow their predecessors, and finally, a new constitution that seems to guarantee nothing except that the Hatchet will be run by someone under the half-century mark in age and that authority will still be divided thoroughly enough so that the individual editors can (a) take credit for successes and (b) disavow blame for not-so-successes.

Cue and Curtain hit a new high in entertainment levels, putting into effect a full program of thespionage that has brought together about as mixed a group and as enthusiastic a group as this old grey head has noted for some time.

Activities as a whole, as has been noted, have drifted from the halcyon type of the BMOC era to a round of petty politics and many surprisingly politics-free campus endeavors along organizational lines.

Social effort remained in the hands of the Greeks, who bore gifts in the form of Glen Gray for a thoroughly enjoyable (though financially uneconomic) Interfraternity Prom, the usual counter offer of bids to the Pan-Hel from those Greeks on the distaff side fortunate enough to have rated the Interfraternity.

The honoraries began to shake themselves a bit and look around to see what can be done by way of justifying continued existence for lodges whose one effort has been to honor new members for their personal efforts at this and that. Maybe it's because it's Spring, but your reporter feels "a stir of might, an instinct within that reaches and towers" (prospectively). Kismet. So let it be. With a developing physical plant the University will stand in real need of active campus groups to give the institution those touches of "je ne sais quoi" that prevent it from being an institution and that alone.

With an adequate auditorium assured for next year the facilities for meeting and entertainment will be increased manifold. Cue and Curtain, Glee Clubs, Debate, and numerous other organizations now hampered by lack of adequate facilities should blossom even as the opening rose under the beckoning arms of some hundreds of auditorium chairs, filled with divertissement-seeking fellow students and Washington public.

The George Washington University is growing. Physically this is evident. Psychically, it will become more and more apparent as the administration realizes more and more that the University will attain its just heights in the minds of men, not alone through the number of Ph. D's, honorary or earned, that are presented to deserving recipients, but fundamentally and basically through the type of "school spirit" (bewhiskered expressive phrase) that emanates from the undergraduates and immediate alumni.

When administration and undergraduate school are both successful in their efforts to reach sympathetic mutual understanding then the University will have found itself.

PICTURE OF THE WEEK

(Stolen from Life) —→

By rare good luck Life's photographer was on the scene when time came around this semester for Dr. Ellmuh Looie Kyzer's famous lecture on "Cleopatra, et cetera." The photograph on the opposite page is the result. Sixteen students were killed, eight more maimed for life (no connection with this magazine), and forty-three more are believed to have fallen down the incinerator, not having been heard from since the lecture. A special Red Cross campaign is now under way to assist in caring for the victims of the riot, and an emergency appropriation is pending before the Senate to take care of the bereaved families of these unfortunates. It is reliably reported that the lines of those wishing to secure seats for the lecture began forming three weeks before the doors were opened and that five of the victims of the riot in reality had quietly starved to death in line long before the actual hostilities started. The estimated damage to the University building is placed at $8,964,822.03, which will give a general idea of the extent of the damage, inasmuch as the building originally cost only $200,000. The problem of accommodation of the audiences for Dr. Kyzer's lectures in the future is one the University authorities refuse to face. It is estimated that 7833 of the University's 8000 students would withdraw from college should it be necessary to ban this particular lecture from Dr. Kyzer's course in future semesters.

PETER RABBIT AND THE AX MURDERS

By DEMPSEY BERRY

(Stolen from Child Life)

One deep dark dreary droopy nighty-night, you dear little morons, Pete the Rab, alias Twitchy-Nose Morton, a well known hop-head, was hop-heading down an alley when out of a garbage can popped Turtle the Dove, a popular stool-pigeon. Turt snarled, "How're you getting along, Ears?"

Pete whipped out his blow-torch and let Turt have it—to light his reefer, of course. Turt said, "Pete, the cops are wise to youse." "Who, meese?" startled Pete.

"Yeah," snarled Turt. "Have a B. C."

So Pete took a powder to his joint where his Moll, Heady O'Hara, was waiting for him whilst she nibbled a heady o' lettuce. Remorseful over her pastoral life, she had just decided to turn over a new leaf, when she noticed a big red bureau which Pete always kept locked.

Heady jamesed (vulgarly known as "jimmied") the lock with a bobby-pin, opened the bureau, and WHAT DO YOU THINK SHE SAW? There was nothing in the drawer. But she could hardly repress a scream of horror when she looked in the other drawers and found (a) one torso, (b) two legs, (c) one ear, (d) two arms, (e) three old issues of Esquire.

"Hmmm," she muttered, "He must've lost his head."

Then, you little brats, who do you think came in. Ahhh! Think you're smart, don't you. Well, it was Pete.

"Why didn't you tell me you were a common hatchet murderer?" said Heady.

"Why didn't you ax me?" axed Pete.

"Well," said Heady, "you may be ahead in your own cabbage patch, but you're just a dumb bunny to me."

Pete started to take the rest of his powder, but the coppers had surrounded the jernt.

"Hand over the jack, rabbit," they screamed, but Pete went out with his cigarette lighter blazing. The cigarette lighter also went out.

The coppers put their artillery in action and blew Pete to helena (Mont.) where he requiescats in pieces.

YE STUDENTTE CLUB

Siwash State has 182 acres of bluegrass-covered, rolling campus. In Spring, the lads and lasses loll and stroll beneath the age-old elms, hand in hand. Herman Zilch, who was born and raised at Siwash, where his father is first-string halfback, arrived at G. W. this fall, a bouncing baby freshman. Having fought his way for many parlous hours through the swirling tide of registration, he finds himself a student.

"Now," says Herman, "Herman, let us find the campus."

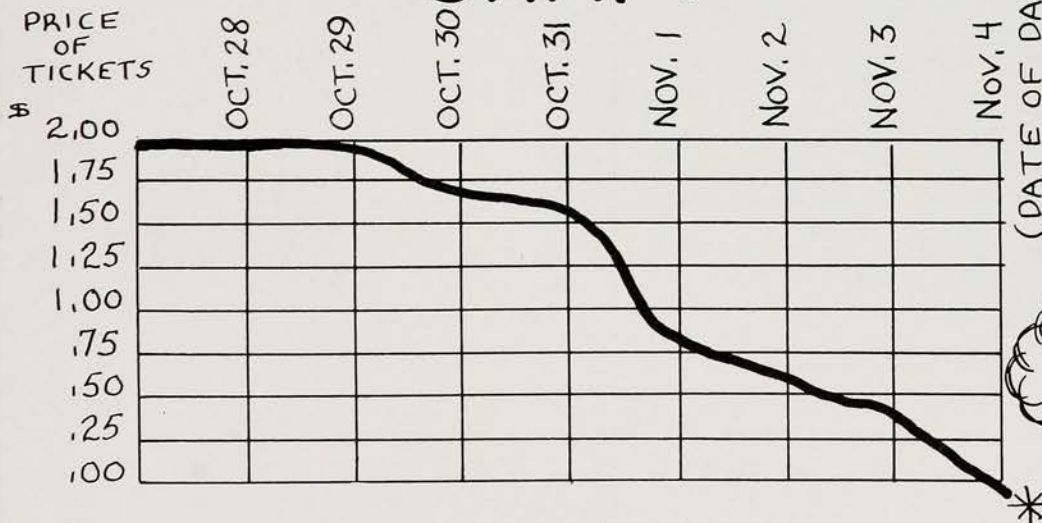

Lo! No campus.

He spends an uneasy moment sitting on the bench in the yard staring at and admiring the noble sweep of glass in the windows of the new library. He wanders past the time-hallowed rusty walls of the gymnasium, ogles the iron reinforcing rods hanging from the walls of Corcoran and Stockton, glances uneasily at the weird blue light that glows from the windows of the Engineering School, starts apprehensively at the shots that ring out from Corcoran's basement, and looks bewildered at the lonesome tall chimney standing around behind the handsome new Government Building. He blunders into Strong Hall and stands amazed at the milling crowd of lads besieging the operator behind the switchboard with its top covered with Blackistone's pink corsage boxes. He tries to get into Quigley's, not knowing that it takes years of practice to get a table there, and that most are reserved by Pi Phi's and K A's.

Alone, abashed, and seeking some obscure corner in which to hide his poor bewildered head, he stumbles into a low-ceilinged basement room, hung round with multicolored fraternity banners and packed with a humming, roaring crowd of students, each trying to make himself heard over the clamour of the nickelodeon and his neighbor's conversation. Student Club, the heart and center of G-Double's campus, and in his years with us, little Herman will grow to know and love it as we do who have seen it come into its present lusty being.

The Club's important fixtures are its three-rank packed soda bar, its tables, juke box, and the clock at one end with its constant warning of impending classes and continual reproach for wasted hours. These are dwarfed, however, by the crowd of students which is the club. The morning's first arrivals are a thin trickle of sleepy-eyed students, dropped off to await first-period classes by work-bound parents. The current swells, and the day fast falls into its normal pattern, marked by the pulse throb of the school schedule, crowded between classes and thinning out while they are in session. At ten minutes of five, a new influx begins. Older students, these, their eyes marked at the corners by the network of fine lines which comes from the years of walking down G Street, squinting into the setting sun. Civil servants mostly, their shoulders newly tired from having given another turn to the heavy bureaucratic wheel of democracy. Two more class periods, then, as darkness falls, the club is closed until another day.

Throughout the day, the atmosphere varies little. The juke box dins from morn till night. Playing automatically when students are few, it sits there hopefully garnering trickles of nickels from prosperous music lovers when the club is crowded. This noble machine has been the storm center of a furious altercation, when "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and SAE's "Violets" showed up on opposite sides of the same record. The crowd of students curdles into tight little knots of common interest or fraternal bonds. The aloof, white-coated darkies wield their pushbrooms among the careless feet of the milling throng, scooping up butts and paper cups and leaving the floor clean for a brief moment until it can be littered up again. The practiced hands of the bridge majors slide their cards expertly over the coke-varnished table tops with four-deep layers of hieroglyphics reminiscent of vanished generations of students. Cue and Curtain's little booth, where tickets for forthcoming plays are sold and swapped is manned from hour to hour by shifting shifts of drama aspirants. Here a group of earnest politicians barter votes for other votes, and council seats for committee chairmanships. There a pair or trio huddles over a notebook or experiment folder, cramming a last few shreds of knowledge before a quiz or making mysterious passes with a slide rule. Now and then, an individual with a book calmly ignores the impossibility of study here. The bulletin board at one end announces school events usually a week old. A chunky, pink-cheeked freshman basketballer from Minnesota lurks in one corner holding hands with a pretty Kappa pledge. The room is dotted here and there with bright, though slightly wilted flowers on mornings after formal dances, and is resplendent with fresh corsages and shiny new pledge buttons at the close of rushing periods. "Hatchets" scattered here and there on Tuesdays impart an illusion of literacy to the crowd.

Here the school's rumors spring full-fledged and spread like wildfire. Here the movements start, petitions circulate, and sales are made, of ideas, CHERRY TREES, and cherry blossoms, coop books, prom tickets, and Sweetheart votes. More thoughts are exchanged here than in most classes, and here Herman feels the fabric of the University is laid bare, and he sympathizes with those thousands of students who see the

HOW TO PLAY TO WIN

(Relashed from the March 10 Issue of the "Kibitzer")

This month we were very happy to receive a great many valuable contributions to this column from our readers. And so, in an effort to guide the bridge player along the straight and narrow path, we have listed these sure-slam plays in the order of their difficulty.

I. For Beginners:

1. The out and out peek—

After removing all suspicion from your opponent's mind by a polite request to "please hold your hand up"—lean over and take careful note of how many trumps he has left in his hand before you take your next lead.

2. Eyeglass reflection—

Beginners still timid about indulging in other more brazen maneuvers have often made use of eyeglasses. This is a very silent and unobtrusive method of enlightening one's partner as to the contents of one's hand.

3. Reneging—

(Holding out on some suit). You've probably already tried this.

II. For Experienced Players:

1. Talking across the table—

Sounds simple, but we have purposely reserved this technique for the highly intellectual type, who is capable of understanding the real significance of such conversational subjects as the weather in London, basketball scores, Broadway, etc.

2. Card substituting from another deck—

The successful player always uses two decks of cards just alike.

3. Deal turner-upper—

"I find this very satisfactory when I can get away with it," says Miss Darlene Cheat. This being a very difficult play, we advise practicing at home in the privacy of one's own family, or other intimate group before appearing in public or even in the Student Club.

4. Using a second hand ace—

(Skillfully taken from a trick already laid down on the board.) Not quite so dangerous as number two. Highly recommended.

We trust that these few pointers will do wonders—simply wonders—for your bridge game.
